

Single-engine plane crashes on runway at Sunshine Coast Airport

By Matt Watson

Updated Mon at 5:49pm Mon 17 Nov 2014, 5:49pm

A female pilot has been taken to hospital after her plane crashed at the Sunshine Coast Airport at Marcoola in south-east Queensland.

Police said the single-engine aircraft crashed on the runway while the pilot was trying to land. It is understood the pilot was the only person on board.

She was taken to Nambour Hospital with minor injuries and was in a stable condition.

An airport spokesman said the light aircraft runway had been closed but the main runway remained open.

Extracted from:

<http://www.abc.net.au/news/2014-11-17/single-engine-plane-crashes-on-runway-at-sunshine-coast-airport/5897714>

On 19/11/14 on 05:08:00