Gold Coast Bulletin June 10, 2016 4:18pm

THE wreckage of doomed Qantas pilot Paul Whyte's light plane was found this morning off the coast of Byron Bay.

But the 46-year-old man's body was not located.

The light plane, missing since March, was located after police requested Navy assistance in the search.

Shortly after 4pm on Monday, March 21 the plane, piloted by Mr Whyte, left Lismore but failed to return.

Struggling with a broken marriage, Mr Whyte rented the light plane from a flying club in Lismore, made one final phone call to his daughters and disappeared into the ocean.
